I am currently in the process of building a baseline dataset for all licences and permits that may be needed by renewable energy projects as part of a wider piece of work for the Department of the Environment, Climate and Communications. 27/03/24

In order to do this, I am contacting all city and county councils that issue such licences and permits to collect a simple dataset for 2023 that looks at all applications made during the year, the date the application was received and the date it was approved / rejected. As these dates may span over different years, I am suggesting that we just use all applications where a decision was reached in 2023. I have included a suggested format below. If it makes things easier, you could send all planning applications where a decision was made in 2023 rather than those specific to renewable energy projects.
