The section on Tourism in the Draft Plan is good.

There are a number of exciting infrastructural projects under way which, in addition to what has been achieved, will help transform the recreational amenities in the county and will also be a catalyst for a significant boost in tourism.

In this regard I believe the role of the Leitrim Recreation Forum, which brings together all the local statutory bodies and community groups, is very important. The level of cooperation and partnership by everyone in the group is noteworthy.

Currently there is a Leitrim Development Company and Leitrim Co Council funded review of the recreation strategy underway through the Forum and this will help chart the strategy going forward.
